COMCAST JAZZ & POETRY SERIES Honors Black History Month

Houston, TX (1/25/10) This year, Bubbha Thomas and the “COMCAST JAZZ & POETRY SERIES” will touch the lives of more than 20,000 children with the “No. 1 in-school Program in this country.”

It’s the 37th time Thomas, a five time Grammy Nominee and his quartet and poet have blended their talents to produce this annual series, and judging from the demand, which sometimes spans several years in advance, it won’t be their last.

Every week in February, during Black History Month-in the morning and in the afternoon through over 20 performances-Jazz & Poetry will bring elementary school children into a one-on-one relationship with Jazz as they explore how the American Jazz beat came about and “what happens when Mr. Saxophone meets Ms. Piano.” One show-stopper, an inspirational poem “I CAN,” is guaranteed to have 3rd thru 6th graders on their feet and keeping time with its lyrics.

Funding for the series is provided by Comcast Cable Television and Lightin’ Records Company.
